November's Character Trait:

GENEROSITY

Seeing what others need and giving my resources to help them

Principal's Corner

During November, our county celebrates generosity as our Character Education word of the month. We kicked off this focus last week with the canned food drive and Pennies for Paulding. These are great opportunities for our students to participate in supporting needy families across our county. Our students are so excited about making the canned goods chain run down the hall! As your family prepare your home for the holiday season, I encourage you to talk with children about all they have for which they should be thankful. Share a thankful thought each night at dinner. Start a list on the first night and add to it after each conversation. Your family will enjoy seeing the list grow.

Another great dinner conversation is how we can show generosity without giving material things. We can show generosity by our deeds and actions. Sharing our talents and acts of kindness is the greatest form of generosity! As a family, share the talents that each family member possesses that they can share with others! Every school day is a great day for sharing kindness and generosity with others!

The Allgood staff joins me in wishing your family a Happy Thanksgiving season! We are thankful to share this school year with each of our Allgood families

Pennies for Paulding

October 28 – November 8

What is it?

A fundraiser to support Hope for Christmas

Hope for Christmas helps provide new toys for kids, ages baby to 18, who are in need of a little assistance.

Why should we help?

The toys provided from this fund drive will help make the holidays a little brighter for the children of Paulding County.

It also provides our students, parents, and staff members with a meaningful way to help others in our community.

How can we help?

You can donate coins, cash, or checks (payable to Hope for Christmas). Send the money to school or take it to LGE Community Credit Union in Dallas or at the Avenues in West Cobb.

All proceeds directly benefit the children of Paulding County.

eTips™: Daily Parent Engagement Messages

from The Parent Institute

Jump start your child's creative writing skills

Here's a great way to encourage your child to write and have fun together at the same time. Set a timer for six minutes. Then, until it rings, each of you write whatever comes into your head. Keep writing, even if it doesn't make sense. When the timer goes off, share what you each wrote. This technique is also great when your child has a writing assignment and says, "I can't think of anything to write."
