Title I, Part A provides for parent and family engagement at every level of the program, including the development and implementation of the district and school Parent & Family Engagement Plan, and in carrying out the district and school improvement provisions. Section 1116 of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) contains the primary Title I, Part A requirements for schools and school systems to involve parents in their children's education. In keeping with Section 1116, PCSD will support its Title I schools to ensure that required school-level Parent & Family Engagement Plans meet requirements and will include a school-parent compact that is consistent with Section 1116(d) of the ESSA.

The term "parent" includes in addition to a natural parent, a legal guardian or other person standing in loco parentis (such as a grandparents, stepparents, adoptive and foster parents, and adult siblings, who raise and care for children, or a person who is legally responsible for the child's welfare). The statement "Parents of all students in Title I schools" refers to families of all students attending Schoolwide Title I schools, and to families of students being served in Title I Targeted Assistance schools.

Title I—Improving the Academic Achievement of All Students

The purpose of Title I is to ensure that all children have a fair, equal, and significant opportunity to obtain a high-quality education and reach, at a minimum, proficiency on challenging state academic achievement standards and state academic assessments. This can be accomplished in several ways, including affording parents substantial and meaningful opportunities to participate in the education of their children. (Adapted from:

What is Parent Engagement?

Parent & Family Engagement is in place when there is a shared and continuous responsibility for student achievement and learning between the family and the school. It is vital to student success. Engagement involves:

- personal two-way communication between school and families
- educational support at home
- shared decision making and setting of plans, goals, and outcomes
- welcoming schools that are parent resource sites

Paulding County School District 2017-2018 Parent & Family Engagement Plan

Research shows that parents have the most significant influence in their children achieving academic success. When school districts, schools, families, and communities collaborate and partner together to support learning, children achieve at higher levels—they do better in school, and schools improve.

This Parent and Family Engagement Plan has been jointly developed with parents in support of Paulding County School District's efforts to support student academic excellence. It establishes the district's expectations for quality family-school engagement, and guides the strategies and resources that will build school – parent partnerships in PCSD Title I schools. It describes the district's commitment to partner with families in the education of their children, and to strengthen the ability to implement family engagement strategies and activities that support children in achieving the district student academic achievement goals.

Plan Development: A Joint Effort

All parents of students attending Paulding County School District Title I schools were offered opportunities to provide input in developing this plan. A Title I parent survey was made available to all families in early spring of 2017. Paper copies were distributed to all families and access on school and district websites was available. Survey results provided an evaluation of the implementation of family engagement practices and activities. Assessment of the results of the survey provided input in the development of this plan, and the Parent & Family Engagement Budget. Additionally, the Annual Title I Spring Planning Meeting took place in early May, 2017. All families of students attending Title I schools were invited to provide input on School Improvement/Title I Schoolwide Program Plans¹, school and district 2017 – 2018 Parent and Family Engagement Plans and budgets, and Family – School Compacts. The meeting was advertised through school and district websites, school newsletters, email, text, and in the Dallas New Era Newspaper. At this meeting, the district's and individual schools' results of the annual survey were shared, and the 2016 – 2017 plan was open for review.

¹ Targeted Assistance Plans are developed on-site at each Title I Targeted Assistance School, as applicable.

Comprehensive Local Improvement Plan (CLIP):

a comprehensive plan for improving student achievement included in an application for funding of several federal and state programs (including Title I) that is submitted to the Georgia Department of Education. This jointly developed Parent & Family Engagement Plan is a component of the CLIP.

Additional opportunities for parents to provide input into developing plans, budgets and compacts took place at school and district meetings and websites.

This plan is a component of the Comprehensive Local Improvement Plan (CLIP), which is submitted to the state. Comments and feedback regarding the plan, and input on additional activities and practices to be implemented, are offered at schools and on school and district websites throughout the year.

The purpose of the team, whose motto is "Linking Home and School for Student Achievement", is for parents from each school to come together quarterly throughout the school year to collaborate and provide support and ideas for one another in taking a leadership role at their school. The mission of the team is to create opportunities to work with parents and school staffs in removing barriers, in effort to strengthen family-school partnership, to impact student academic success. The role of district

The date and location for various parent opportunities and events will be posted on school websites and be included in school parental involvement policies, as possible; additional opportunities will be shared as they become available.

Specific information regarding meetings and activities will be shared in a timely manner to ensure parents have ample time to consider participation. Resources and materials related to specific events will be posted on school and district websites. Copies of resources will also be available at each Title I school.

Title I staff is to provide opportunities for quarterly meetings, provide current research, resources, and guest speakers in support of family-school engagement, and receive recommendations and advice from the group to understand what the district can provide to help schools nurture family-school engagement. Team members will actively participate by taking action at their school through sharing information with school staffs, reaching out to encourage and include parents in school-based opportunities that are offered, and working with Instructional Lead Teachers and principals as key planners and decision makers in increasing parent and school staff capacity.

PCSD schools will each conduct an annual Title I teacher survey. This survey serves to identify where specific areas of support may be required to build teacher capacity in family-school engagement. In addition, information provided through the annual Title I parent survey will be shared with school staffs and used to identify additional focus areas and needs.

At each quarterly meeting with the ILTs, opportunity will be provided for feedback and for requests for district support.
